From 12 September to 5 October, the Latvian National Museum of Art, the exhibition hall Arsenal's workshop (Old Town, Tower Street 1, 2nd floor) will be displayed in the Israeli photographer David Adika solo "As in Water Face Reflects Face / As water reflects the true face of man» .

The artist's works reveal unprecedented Israeli cultural facets, where the echoes of antiquity and the present East-West experience intertwine single node.

David ADIK oeuvre based their nation and family history studies. By sharing the visual experience, documenting the seemingly ordinary and humble home living microcosmos and transforming it to the conceptual artifact. The artist's photographs still life objects, people meet neighbors and close friends portraits, travel randomly exploring Attractive household kitsch elements - everything acquires a universal generalization dimension and suggests the displayed much broader context. "My photos are part of my reality. They have to do with personal biography, my country and the collective memory of society associated with the political situation and social life echoes. I want to detect the presence of beauty, using the so-called "seduction" and "capture" strategy. As opposed to the ideal, the Platonic beauty, my work does tend to be reflected in specific, sometimes in unexpected moments. It consists of minute relationship between me as a photographer, the subject and the light, "says David Adika.

Latvian public will have the opportunity to get acquainted with the artist's latest work cycle "As in Water Face Reflects Face / As water reflects the true face of man", which was created in 2013 with great success and was exhibited in one of the leading Israeli galleries - «Braverman Gallery». The exhibition title is derived from the Old Testament texts (the book of Proverbs chapter 27 19), and the phrase is the sequel to "So a Man's Heart Reveals the Man / [...] as one heart reflects another." The biblical quotation and the exhibition itself seen as an allegory of humanity's existence on the core values of the similarities and differences in Eastern and Western cultures. David Adika chosen dispassionately documenting ancient copper dish kit from his parents' home, typical of every Jewish family relic. This traditional dish countless variations of still lifes stand out not only with a bright and matte surface reflections and elegant light and shadow play, they are also silent witnesses who keep themselves one nation's history, complex and unpredictable as the finest chess game. In this cycle, the author looks over actual objects, searching for similar metaphorical meanings, which is based in history, tradition, ideology, sense of taste, language, culture and social ownership.
